More Rainshowers Are Forecast for Colorado

By United Press International

Colorado got more rain Tuesday afternoon and during the night, and southeastern Colorado was to get a lot of cloudiness and maybe more drizzle through Thursday.

The remainder of the state, forecasters said, would be mostly partly cloudy punctuated with widely scattered showers.

Lamar got .05 of an inch of moisture and La Junta, also in the state's drought belt, got .01. But Trinidad got the heaviest fall—.18 of an inch. Alamosa got .11 of an inch. Lesser precipitation was reported at Colorado Springs, Montrose, and Pueblo.

Forecasters said the state would get more showers during the next five days, especially over the weekend. Temperatures during the period will average near normal on the Western Slope to near east of the mountains.

"Unless we find a gap in the information—this will be the last shot," he said.

The next space project is Gemini—two-man flights.

The high in Colorado Tuesday was 83 degrees at Grand Junction.

The 81-year-old ruler of the Roman Catholic Church canceled his regular weekly general audience in St. Peter's Basilica but appeared at his apartment window to bless a crowd of 15,000 in St. Peter's Square below.

The Pope stood at the third-floor window about three minutes. Seen through binoculars, he appeared very pale. But his voice, carried through microphones, was vibrant and strong as he gave his blessing. He paused twice to clear his throat.

The audience in the Basilica was canceled 40 minutes before it was to have started.

The cancellation was the first since last November, when a similar weekly audience was called off at the last minute.

A day later the Vatican announced that the Pope was suffering from a stomach disorder and anemia. The exact nature of the ailment never was disclosed. There have been reports that the Pope was suffering from cancer or an ulcer.

The Pope has appeared to recover although there have been reports of relapses. Reports circulated Tuesday that he became ill Monday night, but Vatican officials said they knew of no relapse.

Later Tuesday the Vatican announced the pontiff would begin a nine-day spiritual retreat—or novena—on Ascension Day Thursday.

Vatican officials said the novena is in preparation for Pentecost Sunday, June 2. But it was also

Liz Taylor Will Get $10 Million From 'Cleopatra'

NEW YORK (UPI) — An announcement that actress Elizabeth Taylor can expect to make nearly $10 million from the film "Cleopatra" turned the normally staid annual stockholders' meeting of the 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. into a catcalling, whistling session.

The announcement Tuesday by President Darryl F. Zanuck, also was greeted by a demand from stockholder Evelyn Davis for the person responsible for the actress' "ridiculously large contract."

"It was her going price," Zanuck explained.

Stockholder Gloria Parker got

Variety of Foods Sought for Spacemen

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Syria was under French mandate between the two world wars. It won full independence in 1944, although French troops did not leave until 1946. Astronauts making long jaunts yonder in space must eat, so scientists are experimenting with a variety of foods and means of preserving a form of dehydration; atomic irradiation; converting liquids to meat.

"What's My Line?" panelist Arlene Francis was born in Boston, the daughter of American portrait photographer Aram Karajanian.

AUSTRALIAN VOTING Voting laws in Australia differ from those in the United States in that any man or woman in Australia who has a right to vote is required by law to do so instead of deciding for himself whether he wants to vote or not.

Washington (AP) — Soviet forces said to be highly mobile. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, supreme allied commander in Europe, said Lemnitzer gave that assessment to the Soviet army can no longer be considered a "cumbrous force," but is a high mobile one "geared to the realities of the atomic age."

Competition and Profits

Let us see if we can provide to favor profits only on a restricted close reasoning in respect ed basis, is possibly being a little to the operation of a profit-seeking less candid.

It may be that he understands

Let us begin by recalling that economics well enough to know that if profits for himself and his industry for one purpose only: to rivals are unrestricted, the man make money. But rather than be of rivals he must face will pro- letting that bald, self-seeking liferate. And he imagines that he statement cast a pall over our would prefer to have fewer profits for himself and his existing reasoning faculties, let us temper the observation with this realization. Money has never and can never be made by anyone unless some kinds of goods or services are offered to the public at a price the public is willing to pay.

In other words, the motivation is profit, the methodization is service. The two go together and cannot be separated. And it is axiomatic that in the market, 1) regulating profits and 2) per- he who serves best for the perpetuating competition.

This brings us to the fact of competition. Competition has many facets, as we have often remarked. But it springs into being as a result in fact, seek to control profits, of the obvious fact that permitting only a stated percent-eva, for a rainy day. At this when profits begin to appear at a certain point in the economy, it becomes desirable for others to limit competition if they do not bloody assault on the Portuguese actually prevent it. If, on the other hand, they sin at least nominally, the allies of those profits. In short, competition in a true sense, is only possible where profits are possible.

The corollary is also true: that wherever in the market place profits cannot be made to appear, utterly to inhibit the profit-making proclivity and function.

A commission which can limit profits and encourage competition at the same time has not been born, nor can it come into existence. And this is the unhappy dilemma which all busi- ness sooner or later face. But Congress, after the Clay Report, is in no mood to pour immense sums into new ventures of a dubious character. Already the American representatives at the U.N. have declared that the United States will pay only its regular share of the "peace-keeping" (read "big garrison") operation in the Congo; if the other U.N. members don't pay their share, apparently the "Peace Force" will be withdrawn or greatly reduced. The Gurkhas — the only first-class fighting men among the occupying troops — are being withdrawn to India at this writing.

Probably, after all, the best hope for peace and comparative prosperity in the Congo lies with Moise Tshombe, president of Katanga, who now is back in his country restoring order after the "Peace Force's" December devastation. And the Congo may be able to pay its own way. But Congress, after the Clay Report, is in no mood to pour immense sums into new ventures of a dubious character. Already the American representatives at the U.N. have declared that the United States will pay only its regular share of the "peace-keeping" (read "big garrison") operation in the Congo; if the other U.N. members don't pay their share, apparently the "Peace Force" will be withdrawn or greatly reduced. The Gurkhas — the only first-class fighting men among the occupying troops — are being withdrawn to India at this writing.

One of the reasons often given for this is that there is now so much competition in the particular profession or industry, that competitive rates were charged, so that all may profit: so code to ask a government com- mission to investigate their own affairs with the aim of restrict- ing certain practices which they now proclaim to be contrary to the public interest.

As a matter of fact, the same sort of thinking has driven professional men such as doctors, lawyers, real estate brokers, insurance brokers and others into the protectionist arms of government.

The real purpose, altho it would not be so baldly stated, is to act in restraint of trade in an effort to bolster profits by regulating prices. In other words, the following arguments will be offered:

1. The government must regulate our profession (business, industry) in order to keep out of the unfit, those with low standards, those who operate cut-rate, those who make "too much profit" or those who practice "cut-throat" competition.

2. To do this, it must establish a set of rules governing those who may enter the field. (This limits competition). The public is led to believe that this is in the public interest by making standards high. Actually, it will limit competition, one of the facets of which is the improvement of standards.

3. Also, the government must establish "minimum" prices to be charged. This is supposed to protect investors and also to ward off the effects of those persons or firms who operate at very low prices. It tends to penalize the efficient and to protect the inefficient.

4. The government has already stated repeatedly that competition is a nearly sacred condition upon which our economy rests. But now the government must meet with representatives of the industry, profession or business under investigation to find out what prices "ought to be."

If these same industrialists, professional people or business people meet to discuss prices and no government man is present, they are subject to fine and imprisonment for seeking to "fix prices." But now, with the government benignly overseeing everything, "fixing prices" is going to assist in keeping the market place open to competition. At least this is the tenuous and tortured logic the public is supposed to believe.

To The Point Is the Congo Quiet

By RUSSELL KIRK

After the United Nations' "Peace Force" shot up Katanga last Christmas, apparently a comparative exhaustion tell upon the unhappy Congo. Recently this unaccustomed silence inspired Senator Clark, of Pennsylvania, to taunt the critics of U.N. and U.S. policy in the Congo. Why were the friends of Katanga so still? he inquired. Weren't they impressed with the success of compulsory "unity"?

Yet no sooner had Senator Clark spoken, than ferocity burst its bonds again in Elizabethtown, a soldier of the "central government" garrison murdered a white civilian who didn't step off the sidewalk in front of the Bank of Katanga quick enough to please this progressive patriot. In Kasai — the second richest province of the Congo — it was revealed that five thousand people had been slaughtered, and whole villages destroyed, by the occupying central government troops — this unpleasant operation being kept mutually exclusive, government news" until the resistance was broken. In Leopoldville, the Adoula government continued to squander its resources, and one minister purchased a dozen houses in Geneva, for a rainy day. At this age in relation to invested capital, two thousand Angolan terror or some other criteria, will be in training for a certain point in the economy, it becomes desirable for others to limit competition if they do not bloody assault on the Portuguese actually prevent it. If, on the other hand, they sin at least nominally, the allies of those profits. In short, competition in a true sense, is only possible where profits are possible.

Since these two objectives are mutually exclusive, government commissions, with or without regulatory powers, are almost always placed in a position which is wholly untenable. If they do into being as a result in fact, seek to control profits, of the obvious fact that permitting only a stated percent-eva, for a rainy day. At this age in relation to invested capital, two thousand Angolan terror or some other criteria, will be in training for a certain point in the economy, it becomes desirable for others to limit competition if they do not bloody assault on the Portuguese actually prevent it. To the Editor:

Marx figured out a slick way of the Devil. Our enemies are not yet of the excitement when the Capitalists from taking away the divorce Americans from their drum beats or the bugle blows fruits of their labor as rents, interest, and profit. Labor should the mercy of these rapacious foes. Our government is riddled from the owners and abolish private ownership. This required government trustees for tray at every opportunity.

Also the government trustees had no competitors. It worked out that the trustees soon professed their political naivete. The public trustees were to do a better job of planning and managing production than the private entrepreneurs and cheaper since profits, rents, and interest were to be retained by labor.

The American people instituted lightning, he would still need government to aid them in be mightily repelled by the seeking justice, to help them professed of passing from the vise security against foreign aggression while yet guilty of having gressors, and to promote their placed a stone in his brother's few genuine collective interests. Colorado Wheat Farmers Join Resounding 'No'

Carnahan's group was one of those supporting the plan.

E. W. Sprague of Holyoke, chairman of the Colorado Wheat Referendum Committee that worked vigorously for passage of the proposal, commented that he was "kind of at a loss for an answer" to explain the rejection.

He said the opponents of the plan were faced with the prospect of coming up with "less penalties and more government buying of surplus wheat."

Sprague predicted a plan similar to the referendum proposal eventually would have to be adopted to prevent economic disaster for wheat growers.

"They'll [farmers] have to learn it the hard way," he said, adding that he attributed the voting trend to the "fierce independence" of farmers and a lack of "understanding this business of production and price controls."

Sprague philosophically concluded: "Someone has said that life is pretty much a selling job. If, in our human relations, the reaction to us is favorable, we win; unfavorable, we lose. We progress through trial and error."

Demonstrations Will Continue, Race Chiefs Say

By MELVIN LANG

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Greensboro Negro leaders say demonstrations for integration will continue here today in the wake of more arrests.

The 162 arrests by police here Tuesday night raised to nearly 1,300 the number of persons charged with trespass and assorted other misdemeanors in a week. Negro demonstrations were resumed in Raleigh, N.C., Tuesday night.

At Durham, N.C., newly-installed Mayor Wense Graberek said that protest leaders had agreed to a truce while efforts are made to satisfy their major grievances. About 1,600 persons had been arrested in Durham in three days.

Graberek, who was elected Saturday and took his oath of office Monday, made the racial plan one of his first full-time projects.

He met with Negro leaders Tuesday and addressed a mass meeting Tuesday night. He came away from the meeting with a promise that the demonstrations would cease "for the time being." The mayor promised, in turn, to continue efforts to get public eating places to desegregate. Seven already have lowered racial barriers.

In addition, Graberek pledged to work for a public accommodations law, under which no new business would be licensed unless it agreed not to discriminate against the races. He also would try to get charges dropped against those arrested during the prior demonstrations.

In Greensboro, there was no sign of easing of tension. More than 800 demonstrators, mostly college and high school students, streamed by the downtown area for the 10th night in a row.

Police had to block off several downtown streets to traffic. A large crowd of white and Negro spectators gathered, and squads of officers worked to keep them separated.

More wholesale arrests resulted when protesting students took places in front of the S&W and Mayfair cafeterias and the Carolina theater, targets of their demonstrations from the start last week.

The 162 arrested were taken to police cars and buses and processed at the city's Coliseum before being taken to temporary jails.

Most of those arrested in more than a week of tension have refused to post $100 cash bonds, or even to accept release under their own recognition. As a result, even the temporary jails are crowded.

The city council met during late afternoon. Negro leaders had said they would hand the council a statement of goals leading toward total desegregation. But Mayor David Schenck said no list of objectives was received.

There were these other developments on the state's racial front: The Greensboro Board of Education adopted a resolution declaring that all reassignment of pupils for the 1963-64 school year would be made "without regard to race."

Demonstrations resumed at Raleigh after a week-long layoff. A biracial committee had negotiated the truce while it sought a protest movement, said "things could be moving a little faster" toward desegregation."

Other demonstrations have been held, mostly against eating places which admit only whites and department stores which hire only white clerks, in Fayetteville, Wilmington, Charlotte and Edenton.

Today's Weather

(Report furnished by U. S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field as of 5:30 a.m. today)

The mass of unseasonably cool air centered over the Nebraska-South Dakota border near sunrise sent the mercury to the freezing or near freezing level across portions of the forward-ed nation's mid-section.

Readings in the 20s and 30s were logged across the northern half of the Plains and upper Mississippi Valley into the northern Michigan area.

The cool air extended eastward to the Appalachians where the 30s were common and southward to Oklahoma where the 40s and 50s prevailed.

The abnormally cool air set new record low marks for this date in some mid-country localities: Sioux City, Iowa, 32; Kansas City, Mo., 41; North Platte, Neb., 31; Rochester, Minn., 30.

The south central portions of the country had warm moist southerly air forced to ride over the cooler air invading from the north formed a rather wide shield of clouds.

This cloud shield extended from eastern portions of Colorado and New Mexico into Missouri, Arkansas and adjacent areas.

Rain and drizzle fell around the border areas of Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico.

Elsewhere through this cloudy area, showers and thunderstorms erupted, particularly numerous in Texas. Earlier last night heavy showers of one to two inches or more hit the New Mexico-Texas border area. During the morning rain San Angelo, Tex., had over three-quarters of an inch of rain in a 25-minute period.

A few showers fell over New England and fog covered many areas from Pennsylvania to North Carolina. Temperatures thru this region were generally in the 40s and 50s with the 60s and 70s logged across the south Atlantic states.

The note said that if the Western powers did not go along with its proposal, then Russia would have no choice but to keep its rockets aimed at the Polaris patrol routes, at Western-aligned nations on the Mediterranean and at Polaris submarine bases. Nor would any of the neutral nations in the area be safe in event of conflict, the Russians added.

Three Polaris submarines have been assigned to the Mediterranean to help guard the southern flank of the NATO area. They are replacing land-based nuclear missile installations in Turkey and Italy.

President Kennedy has said the replacement means an increase in effective firepower since the Polaris missiles—16 per submarine—are more modern and less vulnerable than the older land-based weapons.

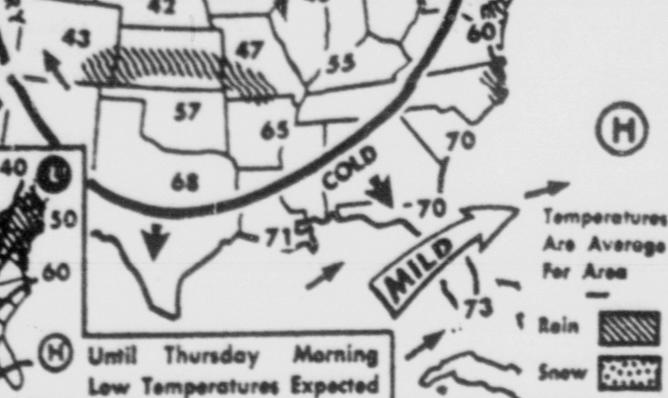

The State Department dismissed the eight-page Soviet note as a propaganda document delivered "on the eve of the NATO meeting."

"What the Soviets are proposing," the department said in a statement, "is that we eliminate our seaborne nuclear capacity in the Mediterranean which is one of NATO's most effective counters to repeated Soviet threats to use their own nuclear weapons against members of the NATO alliance."

The department declared that Russia has nothing to fear from "any defensive measures of the NATO countries." It added sharply that Moscow could contribute "more to the cause of peace by a positive attitude in disarmament talks than by propaganda notes and threats against its peaceful neighbors."

U.S. Wheat Farmers Reject More Controls

In only one region—the southeast—did the administration plan get a heavy majority. This region produces relatively little wheat but has become accustomed to rigid controls on its cotton, tobacco and peanut crops.

The national vote turnout among the farmers was lower than expected, but the total of more than 1.13 million was more than double the number voting in any previous wheat referendum.

The plan would have required farmers to reduce 1964 crop plantings 10 per cent from this year. It would have supported 90 per cent of the normal production on Farm Bureau and some Republican allotted acres at $2 a bushel and the remainder at $1.30. Farmers would have gotten payments totaling around $300 million for idled wheat land.

There was no chance of this. In a statement saying the referendum showed farmers wanted a change in direction in government farm policies, Shuman called for immediate congressional action.

Assistant Senate Democratic leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, a staunch supporter of the defeated plan, said in a statement that the decision of the wheat farmers should be respected.

He suggested that the administration and representatives of various farm organizations and grain groups should get together as soon as possible to try to find a new solution.

Freeman withheld comment until he had an opportunity to study the returns more fully and to confer with administration leaders.

The defeat could become a big farm issue in next year's presidential election, particularly if the administration takes no steps to provide an alternative program.

Polaris 'Fear' Drive Started By Soviet Union

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has started a campaign of fear propaganda in an effort to arouse opposition in North Africa, the Middle East and southern Europe against the operation of U.S. Polaris submarines in the Mediterranean.

James Tuor, manager of Penney's, is chairman of the Down-town Traffic Committee.

Smith's plan met with little opposition Tuesday from persons attending an open meeting at the City Auditorium. The meeting was called by the Streets and Highways Committee of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce.

The campaign was timed to begin with the meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council in Ottawa but the real purpose as seen by U.S. officials is to stir up fear of nuclear war around the shores of the Mediterranean.

The kickoff was a Moscow note delivered to the State Department Monday night. It was also sent to a number of other countries including those in the Mediterranean area.

The note proposed that the great sea between Europe and Africa be declared a "zone free of nuclear missiles."

The Russians said they are preparing to join with the West in "reliable guarantees that the area of the Mediterranean Sea would be regarded, in case of any military complications, as being outside the sphere of nuclear weapons."

The note said that if the Western powers did not go along with its proposal, then Russia would have no choice but to keep its rockets aimed at the Polaris patrol routes, at Western-aligned nations on the Mediterranean and at Polaris submarine bases. Nor would any of the neutral nations in the area be safe in event of conflict, the Russians added.

Ministers and negotiators of more than 70 nations belonging to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade unanimously endorsed an agreement reached earlier in private meetings between the United States and the six nations of the Common Market.

The ministers instructed trade experts to go to work immediately on some of the detailed problems still to be solved. The experts are to draw up a working plan by Aug. 1 for the Kennedy round, so called because it got its impetus from the President's 1962 Trade Expansion Act.

Kennedy's chief trade negotiator, former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, told a news conference important concessions were made by both the United States and the Common Market.

President Kennedy has said the replacement means an increase in effective firepower since the Polaris missiles—16 per submarine—are more modern and less vulnerable than the older land-based weapons.

The State Department dismissed the eight-page Soviet note as a propaganda document delivered "on the eve of the NATO meeting."

"What the Soviets are proposing," the department said in a statement, "is that we eliminate our seaborne nuclear capacity in the Mediterranean which is one of NATO's most effective counters to repeated Soviet threats to use their own nuclear weapons against members of the NATO alliance."

The department declared that Russia has nothing to fear from "any defensive measures of the NATO countries." It added sharply that Moscow could contribute "more to the cause of peace by a positive attitude in disarmament talks than by propaganda notes and threats against its peaceful neighbors."

The agreed compromise provides that most tariffs will be cut by an equal percentage on both sides. Where the rates are very different, special rules are to be set up to compensate for the difference.

The decision holds "promise of considerable improvement from the small independent producer viewpoint," said Mitchell. "We remain convinced, of course, that the most logical solution would be to decontrol legislation through Congress."

The American Gas Association, in New York, said "Our viewpoint is that it [area pricing] may be the way out of the logjam of rate cases that has slowed the industry."

Cocktail Party
Leads TV to Kremlin View

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—The Soviet cocktail party, even as the American brand, has its business uses. In fact, had not been for a high-level embassy party in Moscow in honor of Nikita Khrushchev, NBC might never have been able to penetrate its high walls to make "The Kremlin."

The program, showing portions of the city-within-a-city never seen before on television, will be shown tonight.

Lucy Jarvis, an attractive blonde with long experience in public affairs and news shows, mothered and nursed the entire project, with the official title of co-producer. She got permission largely through fine contacts, good offices—and simple persistence. First break was knowing Alexei Adzhubei, editor of Izvestia and Khrushchev's son-in-law, with whom she became acquainted while working on his freedom-of-the-press television debate with Pierre Salinger a couple of seasons ago.

Once she reached Moscow to wrap up plans and get started on making the tour of the Kremlin, she encountered frustrating bureaucratic delay after delay, however.

Then at the cocktail party, she met Khrushchev himself. Speaking Russian didn't hurt, for she poured out her plans. He turned on the green light—and last September the shooting started.

Until then, Mrs. Jarvis had been negotiating, waiting, stewing, arguing, cajoling, writing for five months.

The program was made by a handful of NBC staff members with major assists from Soviet film makers and television experts.

Mrs. Jarvis is quite happy about the whole thing.

"Everybody—or almost everybody—thinks the Kremlin is a dark, somber place surrounded by walls like a prison," she said. "It isn't at all—parts of it are absolutely beautiful. And if this one goes off well, I hope to go back and do another program on their Hermitage Museum which houses one of the greatest collections of art in the world."

Mrs. Jarvis is philosophical about the delays and problems she encountered.

"Think of it this way," she said. "How long would it take a Russian to arrange to have a television program made by their own crew in our White House?"

Reports that CBS' "Petticoat Junction," a comedy series starting next fall, would be another "Beverly Hillbillies" type show obviously were premature.

The series was originally called "Ozark Widow," and it was understood that Bea Benaderet would continue to play the role she originated—Cousin Pearl—in "Beverly Hillbillies."

Then the title was changed—apparently along with the plot lines—to "Whistle Stop." Now there's been a third change of title, and it has been revealed the series will revolve around the feminine operator of a small, rural hotel located a spur of an almost-defunct railroad. And in New England.

Ed Sullivan's Sunday night hour contained two Kennedy spoofs—one on the 50-mile-hike craze and second, Vaughn Meader mimicking our leader. After all, these months of Kennedy kidding on television, both fell flat. It was like hearing the same joke for the third—or, in this case, 300th—time. To judge from studio audience reaction Ed's hit performers were a cute mouse puppet—and Kate Smith.

Wallace Seen As Big Political Enemy of JFK

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was described today as knowing that in Gov. George

Wallace of Alabama he is dealing out his repeated pledge personal with a man who hopes to take it to block the doorway against the South away from him in 1964. admission of a Negro student. A close associate said the President is aware that Wallace hopes to hold himself out as a martyr to Southern segregationists by a dramatic stand against integration at pictures showing U.S. officials yanking him aside would do about as well.

This could come either at the university branch in Huntsville in June or on the Tuscaloosa campus next September. In either setting, those who know him well say they expect the governor to carry

According to one of those personal pledges, Kennedy got the governor's pledge in a brief helicopter confrontation last Saturday that local and state civilian authorities would maintain law and order in Birmingham.

Saying that nothing could please him more, the President replied that he would not use federal troops dispatched to military reservations in Alabama unless there were fresh and uncontrolled racial disturbances.

But the President made it plain he would use federal force if necessary to maintain the rights of Negroes to peaceful assembly and petition.

Nothing was said about the prospective forthcoming university showdown.

But national Democratic officials are convinced this action will be the forerunner of an effort by the governor to keep Kennedy's name off the 1964 party ballot in Alabama—and as many other Dixie states as will go along with the idea.

In Alabama the Democratic state committee, which the governor controls, could designate a slate of electors pledged to Wallace, as officially uninstructed, to carry the party emblem on the November ballot. Kennedy electors presumably could be put on the ballot too, without the Democratic party designation.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The volcanic eruptions in 1920s caused a similar phenomenon when there were spectacular sunsets in many parts of the world. Southern Africa some of the most glorious sunsets seen in many years.

Many people phoned the weather Bureau enquiring about the sudden brilliance of the evening sunsets over the past weeks.

A Weather Bureau spokesman said that the dust from the volcanic eruption has circulated over Southern Africa, bathing the country in multihued sunsets.

Records of Veterans Are Put on Film

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Records of the state's veterans of all wars since the American Revolution have been microfilmed, and copies can be made in 10 seconds, the Ohio Division of Soldiers' Claims says.

Much of the filming was done through arrangements with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), which uses such records in helping its members trace family history for religious reasons.

Division officials believe Ohio's military claims office is the first, and apparently the only, one in the nation to completely microfilm its records.

State Will Need
$17 Million More,
Committee Told

DENVER (AP) — Colorado will need about $16 million more revenue than is anticipated through present sources to match all federal highway funds until July 1, 1973, a special committee was told here.

Charts showing the need for the additional money were presented to the new Highway Legislation Review Committee by Robert E. Livingston, director of planning and research for the Colorado Highway Dept.

The committee was appointed last week by Gov. John A. Love. Its primary job is expected to be consideration of new truck tax legislation.

Love called for revision of truck taxes during his campaign for election last fall but the legislature bogged down in drafting an acceptable bill.

Livingston and Chief Highway Engineer Mark U. Watrous were the principal witnesses as the committee began its deliberations. State Revenue Director Hugh Weed Jr. was the principal witness for the afternoon session. Livingston, who will serve as committee secretary, said that a year from next July Colorado "will start getting into a mite of trouble" in matching federal funds.

The following year, his calculations showed, the state will fall $618,000 short of matching federal money. The amounts will increase annually until the fiscal year of 1973. The shortage will be $3,855,000, his report showed.

Watrous, in a brief opening statement said the Highway Department participation in committee deliberations will be "purely technical."

"We don't want to be propagandists or advocates of anything except facts," the chief engineer said.

He suggested that a new study might be made on division of highway money which goes to counties and cities to see if conditions have changed.

He also recommended the committee might look into the length of terms for which highway commissioners are appointed. The present 3-year terms, the engineer suggested, result in the turnover in membership "which is a little more than is good for the department."

Specifically on truck taxes, Watrous said in general, federal law limits truck weight to 18,000 pounds per axle and that failure to conform to federal requirements could result in loss of federal aid to the state.

Livingston said this federal aid amounts to about 70 per cent of the money spent annually on highway construction.

The planning and research engineer pointed out to the committee that the department will receive bids Tuesday on refinancing roughly $21 million in highway anticipation warrants in an effort to even out payments and to reduce interest rates.

A special legislative committee studying law laws also began its deliberations at the capitol. Rep. John Nichols, R-Simla, its chairman, said it will meet July 1 to hear witnesses.

Blue Chips Continue to Pace Market Advance

NEW YORK (AP)—Blue chip industrials, rails, and utilities continued to pace a market advance yesterday afternoon in active trading.

Regaining the leadership which they abandoned temporarily to secondary issues, the high quality stocks maintained a moderately higher tone, despite some casualties here and there.

The gains were chiefly fractional, although some went to a point or more.

Sugar stocks continued irregular, some taking losses on profit taking, others moving higher. Some of the specialty issues which have zoomed speculative excitement backed away once again.

The leading steel's displayed a string of fractional gains. Motors leaned higher on balance. Oils nudged ahead consistently. Rails were ahead despite some prominent laggards.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .6 at 275.1 with industrials up 1.0, rails up .5, and utilities up .3.

The background of economic news and comment continued encouraging and most market analysts expected the list to move to new highs.

American Crystal Sugar added about 2 and Holly Sugar a point. American Sugar and South Puerto Rico Sugar dropped fractions. Great Western Sugar eased.

U.S. Steel, Republic Steel, and Bethlehem all gained fractions while Jones & Laughlin rose near a point.

Ford gained a fraction, Chrysler was firm, General Motors eased. American Motors and Studebaker traded about unchanged.

Du Pont (ex-dividend) was up about .2.

Among the rails, Soo Line continued to respond to talk of merger with Chicago Great Western and added a point. Illinois Central made a similar gain.

Control Data dropped about 3 points in a continued wave of profit taking. U.S. Smelting and Eastman Kodak were about a gain to all parts of your car, giving it that finished look, Hillhouse said.

The firm, whose slogan is, "Automobile Appearance Specialists," washes cars on an assembly line and operates the largest automotive polish and wax department in the region with a revolutionary way of cleaning a car motor.

Hillhouse said no major changes in personnel were anticipated.

Reese Warde of the Colorado Springs Realty Company negotiated the sale.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: How can one prove there is a life after death? I believe men are like other animals, passing out of existence after death. —H. G.

ANSWER: The fact that you ask this question suggests that you are not quite as sure as you think. Let me suggest a few reasons why I not only believe, but I know there is life after death. God has placed in our souls a God-consciousness which can never be satisfied without His presence. The Bible tells us that man is made in the image of God and this demands a life after death. Men are not like animals for God has given us souls. If one kills a dog he may have to pay damages but that is all. If man kills a fellow man he is subject to the severest punishment, even execution for his deed.

The Bible is full of references of life after death. Back in antiquity Job wrote of the assurance of standing in God's presence some day. Christ came to give man eternal life and to save us from spiritual death. Christ said: "I am the resurrection, and the life he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die." The resurrection of our Lord is one of the best attested facts of all history. The Bible teaches that all who have believed in Christ as Savior and made Him the Lord of Life will live with Him for all eternity. It also teaches that those who reject Him will rise to face Him in judgment.

CANCELS APPEARANCE
PARIS (UPI) — Composer Igor Stravinsky has canceled a planned appearance in Bergen, Norway, because he is "tired," a spokesman said here Monday.

He said a doctor advised the 80-year-old composer not to attempt the trip, which involved changing planes at both Copenhagen and Oslo.

Stravinsky arrived in Paris last Thursday after conducting a concert in Zagreb, Yugoslavia. He is scheduled to appear in London, Hamburg and Milan before returning home to Los Angeles.

How to Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

ED. 543 By the Chicago Tribune

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual cases.

Hodgkin's disease is a rare malady which leads to progressive enlargement of the lymph nodes. The cause is not known but considerable progress has been made in treatment. Various agents, including X-ray relieve distress and keep the condition under control.

There are lymph glands all over the body. Those in the neck are familiar to most of us; they enlarge whenever the throat or tonsils are infected and go down after the infection subsides. Similar nodes are present in the armpits, groins, chest, abdomen, and pelvis.

Hodgkin's disease usually begins in the glands in one area and early manifestations depend upon the seat involved initially. Swelling of the glands in the neck are the easiest to detect and some persons have noted it while shaving or washing the face. The diagnosis is made by removing one of the glands for laboratory study.

When the structures in the arms or groins are attacked first, enlargement tends to be marked. These of the abdomen or chest are likely to grow considerably before producing trouble. When this occurs, the situation may escape detection for months or years, especially when glands elsewhere are not affected.

In the early stage, the affliction is confined to the glands. The nodes increase in size and number so that great collections of tumors appear. In time, pressure occurs upon more vital structures such as the windpipe, blood vessels, esophagus, stomach, and even the spinal cord. Meanwhile, appetite wanes, weight is lost, anemia develops, and fever is present. Unless treated, the disorder may be fatal within two or three years. But with treatment, life is prolonged up to a decade or more.

X-ray is most useful when the tumors are localized in one region. Nitrogen mustard, chlorambucil, vinblastine (VLB), or cortisone are of value when the disease is widespread. These products are tricky to use and side effects are common.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

He Needs Rest

J. C. writes: My son, a high school freshman, has had mononucleosis for 8 weeks. Our doctor won't let him go back on the swimming team even though he feels good and has lots of energy. Is it because the doctor fears a relapse?

Reply

Relapses occur, especially after severe exertion. This boy is only a freshman; avoiding a recurrence this year should assure him of three more seasons of high school swimming.

Surgery For Sweating

J. H. writes: Is any operation available for a super-sweater?

Reply

The removal of certain nerves along the spine (sympathectomy) may help control the secretion of sweat in certain areas. But this procedure seldom is recommended because excessive perspiration usually does not warrant the risk of surgery. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on perspiration.

Inflamed Heart Sac

R. F. writes: Can a severe attack of pericarditis be cleared completely, leaving no aftermath?

Reply

Yes, but some residual scar tissue can be expected, depending upon the cause of inflammation of the sac surrounding the heart.

Arthritis Not Malignant

M. K. writes: Is it true that arthritis is really cancer of bone?

Reply

No; there is no relationship between the two.

Schoolboys Know Nothing About Dad

ROME (AP) — A Rome grade school teacher has discovered that Daddy is just a mystery man to most of his 9 to 10-year-old fourth grade boys.

The teacher asked his class to write a brief on "My Father."

"At the end of the hour, he said, hardly any boy in the class had more than 100 words on paper. Some hadn't been able to do a word more than the title. One or two only got as far as 'My father is a man who

"One boy just gave it up, writing, 'My father is a man I know nothing about. Can't we write a theme about Mama?'"

Benezet to Speak At Cal-Riverside Commencement

As a civilian nurse I had always wanted to be an Army nurse but I wasn't sure whether I'd like it," she admits. "Twelve of us from Minneapolis entered the Army on a special one-year tour the commencement address at University of California, Riverside, June 6. The exercises will be held on the athletic field at 7 p.m.

She pointed out that, after about four years, an Army nurse receives a better salary than she might ever attain in civilian life. She also mentioned that advancement is much more rapid.

As part of the 54th Field Hospital in addition to her garrison job in pediatrics, she also has participated in field problems, such as last August's Exercise We Will.

"Field work is a ball," she says. "We set up a full 100 bed hospital under tents with various wards, operating rooms, X-ray departments — everything that one needs in actual combat."

Army maneuvers were not the only thrills in store for Marian, however. Before coming to Carson, the 12 nurses on the new program all went to Washington where they met President Kennedy, leaders of Congress, the MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Cee Surgeon General, the head of the Gee, a prospective mother duck, Army Nurse Corps and many doesn't have to worry about the eight eggs in her nest — she has the other dignitaries.

Sport of Spelunking Said Most Exclusive

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — The Abilene Grotto of the National Speleological Society, with six members and two "accompa-ners," is the most exclusive sports organization in town.

Once a month the spelunkers, or cave explorers, load up ropes, hardhats, carbide lamps, flashlights, candles, cable ladders and pitons and head out to investigate a cave. Helped by explorers from Dallas and Austin, they have done much of the primary work on the Caverns of Sonora, discovered in 1955. Now they are working on the Natural Bridge caves near New Braunfels discovered three years ago.

Slogan of the Abilene Grotto is: "Take nothing but pictures, leave nothing but footprints."

NURSERY DUTY — Second Lt. Marian Walls helps a patient in the pediatrics department of the Fort Carson U.S. Army Hospital where she spent much of her first year as a U.S. Army Nurse. One of 12 nurses who went Army together in Minneapolis, Minn., for one year, she is one of seven who have extended their duty tour. She leaves soon for Honolulu, Hawaii.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I have the regular-type broiler pan and we often broil hamburgers patties in it.

I have found that I can line the bottom of the broiler pan with foil and line the insert of the pan with foil also, turning under the edges and placing it on the grill.

However, my home economics course taught me that meat should "not" be broiled on a smooth surface. That is what those little holes and slits are for in the broiler pan!

Now, before I place my meat on the top broiling section, I take my knife and slit dashes through the foil to allow the juice and drippings to drop into the bottom of the pan. It sure saves that hard scouring and broken finger nails after dinner is "over". N.M.

Dear Heloise:

I keep a wooden clothes pin handy near my kitchen sink and it saves me many a broken finger nail. I use it to loosen those stubborn spots from the pans and skillets and it does not scratch them. —Helein M.

Dear Heloise:

My sister-in-law makes crisp, crunchy salads by preparing her greens and placing them in her colander and putting a tray of ice cubes over them for about twenty minutes.

Remove ice, place greens in a clean tea towel and shake out the moisture. Add your favorite dressing.

She also puts a toothpick through a clove of garlic in her dressing and "before" serving, removes the garlic bud.

She has no difficulty finding the pick. It is easy. —Mrs. J. Weimar

Dear Heloise:

I make a thick paste of cornstarch and water and apply it to the oil stains and spatterings of fat on my wall paper.

I make a thick layer on the center of the stain and taper it off to the sides. Make a circle four or five times as large as the stain to avoid a ring.

Leave on for at least 24 hours. Do not remove even if it starts to crumble. At the end of 24 hours continue with the three of clubs or sweater attachment. Repeat if necessary. —Mrs. L. J. R.

Test spot your wall paper first before applying a sofa, etc. Some wall papers are not colorfast. —Heloise

Would you please tell us how to wash corduroy? I want to know how "you" do yours. —Mother of 4 boys who wear corduroy

Dear Mommy:

I hand wash all of my small corduroy garments.

If you wash yours in a washing machine, be sure to rinse them thoroughly with either a water softener or our old housewives friend . . . vinegar!

When I wash garments made of this in my machine, I remove them "before" the last spin dry. . . after using the vinegar rinse.

This seems to prevent hard-set wrinkles.

If you forget—and don't we all—put them in your sink and rinse again by hand adding about a half-cup of vinegar to a sinkful of warm water. Let soak. Plunge up and down with your "plumbers friend."

"Gently" squeeze dry. Hang dry. "Before" completely dry, take your old vegetable brush and brush the soft pile.

The vinegar rinse gives my corduroy a soft velvety shine!

And that's the way I wash my corduroy. I'm completely satisfied.

What do you have to lose? A half-cup of vinegar?

You'll love it. I do. —Heloise

Bebe Daniels Still Reported Improving

LONDON (AP) — Continued improvement was reported today in the condition of actress Bebe Daniels, who suffered a stroke Monday.

Miss Daniels is 62. After years of Hollywood success, she and her husband, actor Ben Lyon, came to Britain 27 years ago and have made their home here ever since.

It's up to the bride to decide whether the wedding punch will be alcoholic or non-alcoholic.

Sex Education For California Schools Urged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sex education in high school and instruction in contraceptive techniques are mandatory because of the breakdown of parental control over teen-agers, says the president of the Planned Parenthood Federation.

Dr. Alan Guttmacher, a New York physician, told a news conference Tuesday: "It is unrealistic to allow the youngster to be burdened with an unwanted child. We must face facts," he added. "If we give youngsters the keys to the car and allow them to go out on their own, we must expect that some of them will go the limit."

Dr. Guttmacher said society is remiss in omitting sex education after allowing chaperoning and other outdated methods to die out.

"We teach them how to make cakes and cars," he said, "but little about the most important things in life: marriage and procreation."

How to Change Pile of Rocks To Rock Garden

This is another article prepared as a public service by the Colorado Springs Nurserymen's Association, and its contents are specifically applicable to this region.

A rock garden should represent a small, natural scene composed of stones and plants or a modern composition without natural origin.

The scene can represent a mountain area, or flat area, or composed thought only. A rock garden has to have one of these three meanings or it would be a "pile of rocks." Unfortunately, you see quite a few rock piles without meaning.

Before we discuss details, it should be said that a good rock garden requires work — not only the installation, but the maintenance too.

We do have different materials available for a successful rock garden: boulders, mostly of granite or sandstone, with or without lichens, in shades of color ranging from blue-purple to yellow, red, green, or white; flagstones, with a smooth or rough surface, with colors from red to yellow, pink to slate; concrete stones in various colors.

The arrangement of the stones depends on the scheme to be accomplished. One thing should be kept in mind in general: do not use too many stones and not too small. Grouping of stones is the most attractive way of placing stones.

All stones in natural arrangements should be covered with soil to give a natural look. In modern composed rock gardens, the pattern and contrast is most important; and gravel or colored sand is used instead of soil. Plants are replaced by ornamental objects.

Placing the stones in the skeleton of a rock garden. After that, the basic planting follows. Basic plantings are focal points in the rock garden arrangements. Plants of special interest are used, and 3. Judy Jubb; 4. Bonnie Vrooman.

Drought Tips

By Forest McWilliams

County Extension Agent

Don't let weeds compete for the precious water needed by the grass in your lawn.

Dandelions, for example, are easy to control, and they are with us in great numbers.

The chemical 2, 4-D is quite effective in controlling dandelions. Follow the directions on the container; never use 2, 4-D stronger than recommended.

Strong solutions can kill the tops of the plant before the chemical has a chance to move to the roots.

When the weeds are thriving, select a warm, quiet day to spray. Avoid, if possible, ester formulations of 2, 4-D in the home yard. Use amine or salt formulations. Do not water or mow the lawn for two or three days after spraying.

Stretching the interval between lawn waterings to as many days as your lawn can take it has much in its favor. Alternate soaking and partial drying so that oxygen can reach the grass roots creates a good growth environment. This method also assists the growth of trees and shrubs in the lawn and border areas. Deep watering once a week avoids the danger of over-watering and water waste.

Changing from frequent to infrequent will probably result in a few dry spots that will have to be watered more frequently. Slow soaking and aeration will improve penetration in these areas.

Yankees Manhandle A's; Baltimore Trims Detroit

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
It's bound to be a bonanza season in the American League for Baltimore and New York—as long as the Orioles keep cashing in against left-handed pitchers and the Yankees keep getting rich against their Kansas City cousins.

The Orioles trounced the Detroit Tigers 4-2 Tuesday night, with lefty Mickey Lolich the pitching victim in his first big league start. They've compiled an amazing 11-1 record against left-handers so far this year and 13 straight southpaws have failed to finish against them.

Mickey Mantle drove across five runs with a pair of well-timed homers, powering the Yanks over Kansas City 7-4. That made the bombers 3-0-3 against the A's, a club they have manhandled outrageously since it moved west from Philadelphia eight years ago.

The Orioles' victory was their seventh in the last eight games and kept them tied for the league lead with the Chicago White Sox, who outlasted the Washington Senators 4-3.

In the night's other AL game,

Reds' Maloney Ties Strike Out Mark

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Maloney signed with Cincinnati on April Fool's Day, but he's no joke to National League batters.

The 22-year-old right-hander, who admits "I babbled my arm too much" in his early days with the Reds, tied the modern major league record of eight consecutive strikeouts and fanned a total of 16 in a 2-0 victory over Milwaukee Tuesday night.

Signed for an estimated $75,000 bonus in 1959, Maloney has had a slow rise to fame, but now stands along with 26-year-old Jim O'Toole as the aces of the Reds' staff. Between them they have recorded 12 of Cincinnati's 18 victories and pulled the club up to .500. Maloney allowed only two hits in the 8-3 innin

Japanese May Use South African Port

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—The large Japanese fisheries company, Taiyo Gyogyo, is investigating using this South African port as a landing base for tuna catches made by its fishing vessels off Madagascar in the Indian Ocean.

If catches were unloaded here and shipped in refrigerated vessels to Japan, the company's fishing boats could spend longer times on the fishing grounds during the catching season.

Suspense 'Deadly Game' Marks Civic Players

By JOHN FETLER

A suspense mystery, entitled "The Deadly Game" is the season's last offering of the Civic Players, at the Fine Arts Center this week.

It is a play staged with the usual Civic Players thoroughness and professionalism, directed after an isolated Swiss man-with the usual skill for the cumulative impact by Orvis Grout, and then the lesser, quieter, who now moves to Durango for but very effective part of the summer work there.

"The Deadly Game," by the in an excellent manner by Keith way, continues for the rest of the Nelson.

The other actors are John Bak- which has some thoughtful and even chilling moments, as the Urban, Thomas Fisher and talk and action in the play pro-Katy Bills. Most of the play congresses from that of a game to a trial, in which the final realization of horror in defendant gradually realizes the best tradition of the literary with horror, but we should leave this to be discovered by

Curiously enough, the play of the playgoer. Suffice to say, thaters a subject matter which has suspense mystery fans will find more than one meaning for those this quite a strong fare, and will who have the interest in greater follow the battle of the prosecu- subtleties than in the wind which for defense with quite a bit more or less whining of interest.

These subtleties have to do with the age-old questions of so-called justice and guilt. It has to do with the administration of justice in a kangaroo court fashion, and as such could well be thought of as a rather devastating satire of some aspects of judicial thought.

What makes this play somewhat different from others of the kind is the ending, which shows a pessimistic, tragic curve as far as the view of "justice" is concerned. This, on the other hand, provides a rather effective theatrical ending, certainly just the opposite from what the viewer may expect, and thus is a surprise.

It is not often that the Civic Players present a play with this kind of subject matter. The impact is strong, even if the ten-

Academy Takes Air Force Award For Conservation

Air Force Academy Superintendent Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren officially accepted the 1962 Gen. Thomas D. White Fish and Wildlife Conservation Award during ceremonies in the office of Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Curtis E. Le May in Washington Tuesday.

The White conservation award is presented each year to Air Force installations that have conducted outstanding conservation programs during the preceding calendar year.

Also attending the ceremony were Colorado senators Gordon Allott and Peter Dominick and Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth.

Upon accepting the award Gen. Warren said, "This would not have been possible without the aid of man state and national officials both in and out of conservation."

Gen. Warren accepted an engraved plaque depicting the original award — a silver bowl mounted on an ebony base — for the Academy. Names of yearly winners are engraved on the original award which remains in custody of the Air Force Chief of Staff.

Black Forest Puppy Has Impressive Win

A nine month old Samoyed puppy, owned by Mrs. H. R. Ferguson, Hungate Road, Black Forest, chalked up an impressive win in the dog show held at Salt Lake City, Utah, Sunday.

Kimo's Tonka, handled by Mrs. Harriett Pross, also of Black Forest, took first in the Winners Bitch class for a five-point major win.

Saturday she was also shown in the puppy class in a show at Ogden, Utah, took first in that class and brought home a trophy and a blue ribbon.

Other local wins were Best of Breed for Wil-o-Wood of the Meadows, a Golden Retriever male, owned by Earl S. Wilson of Colorado Springs. This dog won Best of Breed at both the Salt Lake City and Ogden shows.

A Doberman female, Bernheim Star Dance, owned by Sgt. and Mrs. Fred W. Butler of Colorado Springs went Reserve Winner at the Ogden, Utah show.

These dogs were all handled by Mrs. Pross who is a well known dog fancier in this area.

General Calls Coulee Crest 'Most Successful'

A top-ranking military officer termed Exercise Coulee Crest "most successful" during the final critique of the maneuvers held recently at Yakima, Wash., as Ft. Carson soldiers began their return trek home.

Gathered in Yakima's Capital Theater, senior commanders of the Army and Air Force heard General Paul D. Adams, commander-in-chief of STRIKE COMMAND, sum up the more than $6 million exercise in these words:

"It was the most successful maneuver I have witnessed... and I have been connected with the service since 1921."

He continued: "This was the first time since Korea that we could combine the tremendous firepower of large forces in the same area just as it would be on the real battlefield."

One point he stressed was that Exercise Coulee Crest was the first time many officers and men had experienced live fire and that this made it the best training they could possibly get.

In speaking of the nearly one million acres and the warmhearted hospitality of the residents who loaned the land he said: "If the people of this area feel the way we do, we'll be glad to come back next year."

Gen. Adams complimented all the participants for their fine showings and praised the cooperation of the Army and Air Force.

Exercise Coulee Crest ended at 1:45 p.m., May 18, after Red and Blue Forces had exchanged three simulated nuclear blasts with 8" howitzers and Honest John rockets. Maj. Gen. M. A. Preston, deputy director controller, called halt to the maneuvering.

The characteristics were quite convincing, two of the best ones without a doubt being that the simulated nuclear blasts with 8" howitzers and Honest John rockets.

Gen. Adams complimented all the participants for their fine showings and praised the cooperation of the Army and Air Force.

Of all the Englishmen who drink gin... how many drink Gordon's?

Most of them. And it's been that way for years. To be blunt about it, Gordon's is England's biggest selling gin—as it is America's and the world's. Why? Probably because we have always refused to tamper with a good thing. Gordon's still harks back to Alexander Gordon's original formula—conceived in London 194 years ago—so its distinctive dryness and delicate flavor remain unchanged and unchallenged to this day. Ask for Gordon's by name.

A Chevy II wagon looks this big when you load it up and this big when you gas it up

That, in the eyes of most Chevy II wagon owners, is just about the size of it.

A king-size appetite for cargo. But a dainty one for gas. And this, we hardly need add, is just the kind of wagon we planned it to be. Just the kind of wagon that makes loads of sense, too, these bright beckoning days when you feel the urge to pack up and make tracks.

Taut and trim as it is on the outside, we went to great lengths to keep it BIG where a wagon should be BIG. The load platform extends a full nine feet from the back of the front seat to the tip of the lowered tailgate. Try that on.

Mystery Guests Appear With Singing Mitch

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—A tantalizing conceit of NBC's "Sing Along

"With Mitch" has been the weekly Tuesday night's special. "The Kremlin," unless it objected generally to the dramatic and unusual way the ancient Moscow fortress was presented for the first time to television audiences.

Anyway, NBC went ahead with the broadcast, stating that none of the objections were based on charges of historical inaccuracy. It was a wonderful show.

Rather than just moving cameras through the rooms and shooting exteriors of old and new palaces and cathedrals, the program used the interiors and exteriors for a short and fascinating course in Russian history.

The star of the program was neither Ivan the Terrible nor Peter the Great, fabulous as they sounded, but the beauties to be found in the 65 acres within the old brick battlements.

Some of the cathedrals—now museums—were breathtaking, and so indeed were many of the rooms and apartments shown.

The joys of the program were at least quadrupled for those with access to color sets. For us, the silver gleamed, the jewels in the czars' crowns sparkled and icons came to glowing life.

Much of the time the camera moved like an eye as, with sound effects, music and occasionally portraits and sketches historical events were reenacted. One most effective portion showed the burning of Moscow—smoke and flame rising against a night sky filmed from within the walls.

A warm yet precise narration by producer George A. Vicas added much to the imaginative whole. The Kremlin is a place many of us have wondered about, and the program was an altogether fascinating hour into which politics and ideologies intruded very little. The emphasis was mostly on Russia's turbulent past.

The period since 1917 was touched lightly and gingerly. Khrushchev was mentioned even less than Stalin. Perhaps that was what really bothered the radio and television committee.

GAEILIC

Most of the people of Ireland do not speak Gaelic well enough to use it for conversation. Since Gaelic is one of the official languages of the country, children must study it in schools.
